

Retail Radar

Jul 22 – Momentum Cooldown, Hyperscaler Earnings

Retail Trading Activity Overview

- Retail flows were moderate last week (35.3%ile), essentially unchanged from the prior week. ETF inflows continued to fade (4%ile from 18%ile), but stronger single-stock activity helped offset some of that softness (71.8%ile from 51%ile). This slowdown in retail engagement aligns with the recent market nervousness around the Momentum drawdown. The factor has unwound sharply over the past month (down 14% on a long vs. short basis across cap-weighted S&P 500 quintiles). The unwind was particularly intense given crowding was at an extreme, Figure 2, signaling a high probability of a factor flash crash (see Mid-Year Outlook). Consistent with that dynamic, the current unwind has featured repeated high-magnitude negative tail events, including a -6 sigma day last Thursday and seven extreme negative-sigma observations (-3 sigma or worse) over the 18 days during this unwind (see Figure 3).
- Within ETFs, weakness continued to be broad based. Sector flows were particularly soft, Figure 2, with Tech ETF inflows turning negative, Figure 4. The most sold ETFs this week were SOXL (-1.6z) and SMH (-1.6z). Flows into Financial ETFs cooled back to flat after last week's exceptional post-earnings surge, while Crypto ETF inflows were stronger (e.g., BITO: 3.0z). As for Single Stocks, Communications and Tech drove purchases, with SPCX, NVDA, GOOGL/GOOG, TSLA and NU the top five names. The 2Q Earnings season continued with the first Mag-7 companies reporting on Wednesday, see Single Stock Stories with Elevated Retail Activity:
 - What to expect as hyperscaler report this week and next? According to our Earnings Scorecard, "AI capex supercycle remains the dominant theme heading into hyperscaler earnings, with a clear bias towards the upside. Across the group, the key swing factors are AI monetization and returns, where investors are looking for improved monetization across cloud, ads, and enterprise, in addition to token pricing dynamics, frontier model competition and a more volatile macro backdrop where resilient spending could drive guidance upside, even as softer consumer sentiment and renewed military activity could temper some 3Q outlooks."
 - Retail investors bought GOOGL (1.9z) and TSLA (0.4z) ahead of their earnings announcements on Wednesday. GOOGL, Figure 15, traded down ~4% after Wednesday's announcement. Beyond the hype around potential 2027 capex guidance (Street at $250B and JPMc at $290B), the key metric that mattered was Google Cloud growth, which beat expectations (+82% reported vs. buy side +70-75% y/y vs. Street +64%). Capex guidance for this year was increased to $195-205B (vs. $180-190B prior), Figure 17. TSLA reported an earnings miss on Wednesday despite strong revenue growth on EV sales due to lower prices and regulatory credits, Figure 17. The stock slightly declined in after hours trading following the announcement.
 - TSMC's 2Q earnings came in better than expected, helped by strong operating leverage (driving margins to 60+% for the first time), while revenue and gross margins came in at the top of the guidance range. The positive surprises came from the revenue guidance upgrade in 2026 and capex upside, along with strong AI demand commentary. Retail involvement was modest over the week (0.3z) as the stock faced some pressure following the announcement, before recovering (link).

- SMCI drew moderate retail interest (-0.6z on Wednesday, Figure 21) as the shares jumped ~23% on Wednesday, after the server maker issued preliminary quarterly results showing positive surprises coming on gross margins and orders (link).

Retail Trading Activity in Numbers for the Week: Jul 16 to Jul 22

- Retail flows were $5.7B this week, below the 12-month average of $6.8B/week. Retail investors continued to favor ETFs (+$3.9B) over Single Stocks (+$1.8B).
- Outside of Broad Based Large Cap Equity ETFs (+$1.4B), retail ETF buying was influenced by Equity Style Dividend (+$220M), Equity Style Call/Put writing (+$220M), Fixed Income – Multi Sector (+$182M), and International Equity EAFE (Broad Based) (+$152M).
- This week, in line with prior weeks, retail investors continued to buy AI datacenters and electrification (JPAMAIDE), Top 30 AI/Datacenter Beneficiaries, Mag 7, Growth, along with AI Software/Product/Monetization, and OBBBA Immediate Expensing Beneficiaries, see Figure 4.
- Activity in Mag7 this week: Retail investors bought NVDA (+$412M), TSLA (+$319M), MSFT (+$202M), AMZN (+$177M), and META (+$21M) and sold AAPL (-$114M).
- Outside of Mag7, retail investors favored Communications (+$535M) and Tech (+$409M) and were net sellers of Industrials (-$231M) and Cons. Disc. (-$226M).
- Top five retail stocks last week: SPCX (+$514M), NVDA (+$412M), GOOGL/GOOG (+$328M), TSLA (+$319M), and NU (+$308M). Bottom 5 retail stocks: AAPL (-$114M), AAL (-$107M), SNDK (-$44M), PYPL (-$43M), and CBRS (-$42M).
- In options, retail share is at highs, Figure 41. The most traded options were in the following names, echoing previous weeks: TSLA, MU, NVDA, AMZN, META, SNDK, AAPL, AMD, GOOGL/GOOG, and MSFT. For the most bought/sold delta and gamma names, see Retail Activity in Options. Also see Retail Investors Options Activity by Sectors.
- Futures Activity (Non Retail): Over the past week, Futures traders net sold ~$4.1B, primarily driven by net sales in NQ (~$8.3B) and partially offset by net buys in ES (~$2.3B) and RTY (~$1.9B)

Single Stock Stories with Elevated Retail Activity

Hedge Funds vs. Retail: High Short Interest Meme Stocks

- KOPN ($0.6M bought last week, 0.4z, Figure 12): The company recently reached three key milestones in its color MicroLED development program under the U.S. government's Industrial Base Analysis and Sustainment (IBAS) initiative. Retail flows have increased since May 2026, with net purchases totaling $14M, alongside rising short interest of ~16% of float, up 6% over the same period.
- ONDS ($134.2M bought last week, 4.3z, Figure 13): The company secured a $6.9M order from the Australian Department of Defence for its DTIM Operator, contributing to an 11.5% rise in the share price. The stock has been on retail investors' radar since January 2026, with net inflows totaling $600M, amid elevated short interest of ~42% of float, up 20% over the same period.
- WYFI ($1.2M bought last week, 0.4z, Figure 14): The company reported initial R&D test results for its cross-data center networking solution, indicating successful outcomes. Retail investors have purchased $20M since late May 2026, alongside high short interest of ~50% of float, up 15% over the same period.

Earnings Stories

For more details on this earnings season, please see Hyperscalers vs. AI Hardware.

- GOOGL ($74.7M bought on 7/22, 1.9z, Figure 15): Google reported earnings this afternoon, trading down ~4% after market close. Beyond the hype around potential 2027 capex guidance (Street at $250B and JPMe at $290B), the key metric that mattered was Google Cloud growth, which beat expectations (+82% reported vs. buy side +70-75% y/y vs. Street +64%). Capex guidance for this year was increased to $195-205B (vs. $180-190B prior).
- TSLA ($101M bought on 7/22, 0.4z, Figure 17): Tesla reported an earnings miss this afternoon despite strong revenue growth on EV sales due to lower prices and regulatory credits. The stock slightly declined in after hours trading following the announcement.
- SCHW ($1.3M bought on 7/21, 0.5z, Figure 19): Charles Schwab reported a solid 2Q26 beat and raised its full-year guidance, supported by better top line and steady expense management. While the muted stock reaction suggested near-term expectations were looking for more, our analysts highlight tailwinds supportive of more growth ahead in the back half of the year (link).
- SMCI ($0.8M bought on 7/21, 0.1z, Figure 21): Super Micro published preliminary results, revising their revenue guide toward the lower end of the prior, but with positive surprises coming on gross margins (guidance up by +7-9% vs. prior) and orders. The stock is up +23% since the announcement (link).
- TSMC: TSMC's 2Q earnings came in better than expected, helped by strong operating leverage (driving margins to 60+% for the first time), while revenue and GMs came in at the top of the guidance range. The positive surprises came from the revenue guidance upgrade (to 40+% y/y) in 2026 and the capex upside ($60-64B in 2026, with significant upside in 2027/28 as well), and strong AI demand commentary, suggesting AI demand trends are likely to remain strong into 2029-30. The stock faced some pressure following the announcement but has since recovered (link).
- UNH ($11.7M sold on 7/16, -0.5z, Figure 23): UnitedHealth beat and guidance was meaningfully revised upward. All four business lines outperformed expectations. The stock reaction was muted (link).
- GE ($4.4M bought on 7/16, 0.8z, Figure 25): Expectations were more elevated than usual for 2Q results, with GE Aerospace's stock underperforming despite good numbers and higher guidance. The key issue for investors is the trajectory of highly profitable CES Services sales, where the outsized growth of recent quarters has sparked some debate about the shape and stock impact of an inevitable deceleration. Margins and cash flow are also in focus (link).
- NFLX ($22.3M bought on 7/16, 0.3z, Figure 27): Netflix's stock traded down ~9% post-earnings on concerns around engagement, monetization, and returns on content spending. Nonetheless, strong revenue and profit growth continued (link).
- ABT ($7.1M sold on 7/16, -1.3z, Figure 29): Abbott Laboratories reported better than expected 2Q26 results, beating on both the top and bottom line and raising guidance for the latter. The stock was up +11% following the beat (link).

Macro & Fundamental Stories

- Semiconductor stocks were up ~7% in the last week (vs. S&P 500 at ~1%) following the ~20% sell-off since the late-June peak. The positioning picture in the space has improved, with the setup for the space appearing tactically healthier heading into earnings. On the fundamentals side, the group is expected to deliver another solid quarter, constructive 3Q commentary, and higher CY27 expectations, extending the recent positive earnings revisions cadence. Moreover, our analysts believe the silicon supply vs. demand deficit is likely to turn even more acute in '27, and tightness should bleed into '28 (see Preview). That being said, further out, we believe volatility in the space could persist as concerns remain around incoming and competing AI equity supply both domestically and internationally, the slope of the forward capex curve, and the ability of debt markets to absorb this funding, as well as potential breakthrough efficiencies and broader questions around terminal profit margins tied to the balance between demand and supply across the AI infrastructure market (see Report). Retail activity was relatively high on Sandisk (SNDK, $113M sold last week, -1.1z, Figure 31), while Nvidia (NVDA, $432.8M bought last week, -0.2z, Figure 33) was more muted over the past week.
- SPCX ($404.5M bought last week, 0.1z, Figure 35): SpaceX stock is down -5% in the last week and now trading slightly below its IPO levels. The company rescheduled its next flight test for its Starship rocket to tomorrow (July 23) after facing some engine issues last week (July 16). While this will be the 13th Starship launch, it is the second launch of the V3 configuration, which should be deploying Starlink and eventually AI satellites to orbit in the coming years, as well as landing astronauts on the moon (link).

J.P. Morgan uses the following rating system: Overweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will outperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); Neutral (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will perform in line with the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe); and Underweight (over the duration of the price target indicated in this report, we expect this stock will underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe. NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.

J.P. Morgan Equity Research Ratings Distribution, as of July 04, 2026

	Overweight (buy)	Neutral (hold)	Underweight (sell)
J.P. Morgan Global Equity Research Coverage*	53%	36%	12%
IB clients	83%	80%	73%
JPMS Equity Research Coverage*	51%	37%	12%
IB clients	95%	92%	87%

*Please note that the percentages may not add to 100% because of rounding.

Percentage of subject companies within each of the "buy," "hold" and "sell" categories for which J.P. Morgan has provided investment banking services within the previous 12 months.

For purposes of FINRA ratings distribution rules only, our Overweight rating falls into a buy rating category; our Neutral rating falls into a hold rating category; and our Underweight rating falls into a sell rating category. Please note that stocks with an NR designation are not included in the table above. This information is current as of the end of the most recent calendar quarter.
